DELTA ACQUIRES LEWIS ENGINEERING, PC

Endwell, NY - Delta Engineers, Architects & Land Surveyors, DPC (Delta), a multidisciplinary architectural, engineering, and professional services firm based in Endwell, NY, has acquired Lewis Engineering, PC of Albany, NY effective January 1, 2019. The shared core services offered and comparable client rosters of the two firms makes this a logical merger that will enhance the depth of professional design services available and facilitate growth for both companies.

Lewis Engineering was founded in 1995 as Schaefer Engineering & Architecture Associates, PC and became Lewis Engineering in 2006 when Rodney F. Lewis, PE assumed primary ownership. Mr. Lewis will become a Principal with Delta and seven Lewis employees will join Delta in the merger. With this acquisition, Delta has now grown to 144 employees who are based in four offices in New York State and Maryland.

The former Lewis Engineering office at 94 New Karner Road in Albany will be relocated to the new Delta office at Mohawk Harbor in Schenectady in late January. This new office expansion was facilitated by the collaboration of the Delta management team, the Schenectady Metroplex Development Authority, and the Galesi Group.

“Rodney Lewis and his experienced team will make an excellent addition to the Delta Facilities Group. Their expertise with the design standards of our common clients will make this transition seamless and efficient. We are very pleased to have them join our Mohawk Harbor Office and to now have an office location in the Albany Capital Region” said Anthony R. Paniccia, PE, JD, President & CEO of Delta.
